Art Unit: 2142

1. Claims 1-16 are presented for examination.
2. The applicant should use this period for response to thoroughly and very closely proof read and review the whole of the application for correct correlation between reference numerals in the textual portion of the Specification and Drawings along with any minor spelling errors, general typographical errors, accuracy, assurance of proper use for Trademarks TM, and other legal symbols ®, where required, and clarity of meaning in the Specification, Drawings, and specifically the claims (i.e., provide proper antecedent basis for "the" and "said" within each claim). Minor typographical errors could render a Patent unenforceable and so the applicant is strongly encouraged to aid in this endeavor.

3. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

4. Claims 11-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. (In re Beauregard (CAFC) 35 USPQ2d 1383) and MPEP 2106). In light of the current Guidelines for computer related programs, the claims encompass things like "carrier wave", "energy wave", other types of "wave" or "waves" (i.e., energy) as well as printed matter, data structures, and other non-statutory subject matter in that class since the computer program product is on any computer readable medium including non-statutory subject matter. However, "storage medium" would fall under patentable subject matter since "storage" (i.e., a wire holding data for a finite time, thus storing the data, to permit the reading of data therefrom) would imply something tangible not encompassing energy per se'. Void space, or matter, holding photons, permitting voltage potential variations, or the passage of electrons, even if finite, would also be storage as these were the original well known forms of computer storage.

5. A shortened statutory period for response to this action is set to expire 3 (three) months and 0 (zero) days from the date of this letter. Failure to respond within the period for response will cause the application to become abandoned (see MPEP 710.02, 710.02(b)).

6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Robert B. Harrell whose telephone number is (571) 272-3895. The examiner can normally be reached Monday thru Friday from 5:30 am to 2:00 pm and on weekends from 6:00 am to 12 noon Eastern Standard Time.
